

The Nest Children's Home

1930 – 1941

Other Names:

- Dappeto
- The Nest

Details

The Nest Children's Home was established in Arncliffe in 1930 by the Salvation Army in Dappeto, the building which had previously been Arncliffe Girls' Industrial Home. It was a children's home with capacity for 60. In 1941 The Nest was converted to Arncliffe Girls' Home, which was often referred to as The Nest Girls' Home.

Arncliffe Girls' Industrial Home became known as The Nest Children's Home in January 1930. From January 1941 to January 1969 it was then called Arncliffe Girls' Home, although commonly referred to as The Nest Girls' Home.

In 1935 the Salvation Army General Evangeline Booth stayed at The Nest whilst visiting Sydney. In preparations for the visit the interior was re-painted and the 60 girls living in the home had to ensure that it was thoroughly cleaned and polished.

The Nest (Arncliffe Girls Home)

Description: This photo is undated, the date included is an estimate.

The Nest Children's Home, Arncliffe

Description: This is an image of The Nest Children's Home, Arncliffe. It shows approximately 25 young girls and several adults (presumably staff members) in the grounds of The Nest, standing in front of the manor house. The girls are all wearing white dresses, and many have what appears to be white ribbons in their hair. The image was published in a newspaper article in The Sun titled 'Pink and Blue Bedroom for General' in 1935. The picture was originally captioned "'The Nest,' where General Evangeline Booth will live while in Sydney".
