Details

Integricare is a Christian, non-government service that runs child care facilities and playgroups across Sydney. It is the successor of Communicare and the Sydney Rescue Work Society. It also provides permission to access the records of Sydney Rescue Work Society agencies, including South Sydney Women's Hospital and the Sydney Rescue Work Society Adoption Agency, as well as some of Ardill's homes. Integricare operates early childhood services in some of the buildings previously owned by the Sydney Rescue Work Society and the Society for Providing Homes for Neglected Children, including the premises of the Rockdale Babies Home and Roslyn Hall and Ardill House at Croydon.
