

Adoption and Family Information Service of SA

c. 1988 – 2018

Other Names: • AFIS

Details

The Adoption and Family Information Service (AFIS) was part of the Department for Education and Child Development. AFIS dealt with all issues relating to adoptions, past and present. The Service assisted people affected by past adoptions, Aboriginal people separated from family as a result of previous government policies, and former wards of state who have reason to believe they may have been adopted. It provided information, advice, advocacy mediation and counselling. People who were adopted or believe there may be a Departmental file in their name could contact AFIS for assistance. In 2018, the Adoption and Family Information Service changed its name to Adoptions South Australia.

More info

Chronology

- Adoption and Family Information Service of SA (c. 1988 – 2018)
 - Adoptions - South Australia (2018 - current)

Related Entries

Related Organisations

- Families SA, Department for Education and Child Development \(2011 - 2016\)
Adoption and Family Information Service of SA was part of Families SA.
Date: - 2016
- Department for Child Protection \(2016 - current\)
Adoption and Family Information Service was part of the Department for Child Protection
Date: - 2018

You can view this page online by visiting <https://findconnect.efront.digital/entity/adoption-and-family-information-service-of-sa/>