

Fremantle Native School

1842 – 1851

Other Names: • Anglican School, Fremantle

Details

The Fremantle Native School was established by The Reverend George King in 1842. It was an Anglican residential school for Aboriginal children, mostly girls. Starting with 15 students, the school closed in 1851. The remaining students were transferred to Annesfield in Albany.

More info

Related Entries

Related Organisations

- Perth Native School \(1840 - 1845\)
The Fremantle Native School was set up to run in a similar way to the Perth Native School.
- Wanneroo Native School \(1844 - 1851\)
There was a close relationship between the Fremantle and Wanneroo Native Schools, even though they were established under different religious banners.
- Annesfield \(1852 - 1871\)
The first children at Annesfield had been transferred from the Fremantle Native School.
Date: 1852 -

Resources

- Letter from Charles Symmons, Protector of Natives, to the Colonial Secretary, Perth, June 11, 1843, The Perth Gazette and Western Australian Journal, 17 June 1843
- Annual Reports of the Guardians of Aborigines, The Perth Gazette and Independent Journal of Politics and News, 7 February 1851
- [From the Government Gazette \[Protector of Natives\]](#), The Perth Gazette and Western Australian Journal, 23 January 1847
- [Annual Reports of the Protectors of Aboriginines \[Aborigines\]](#), The Perth Gazette and Independent Journal of Politics and News, 10 February 1849

You can view this page online by visiting <https://findconnect.efront.digital/entity/fremantle-native-school/>