

Building a Future for Spastic Paralysis Victims

Details

This video, produced in 1940, features McCleod House, also known as the Spastic Centre Country Children's Hostel, in Mosman, Sydney. It shows scenes of life at the home, including children participating in classes, physical exercises, handcrafts, and at meal time. The narration gives an overview of the purpose of the centre and the methods used in treating the children with spastic paralysis.

Please note the British Pathe website has incorrectly titled this film as 'Sydney – Downs Syndrome Children'.

From Date	c. 1940
To Date	c. 1949
Source	British Pathe featuring Reuters Historical Collection
Rights	Copyright British Pathe
External URL	https://www.britishpathe.com/asset/96031/

Related Information

- Spastic Centre Country Children's Hostel

More info

You can view this page online by visiting <https://findconnect.efront.digital/entity/sydney-downs-syndrome-children/>